I'm in web industry since 2003. During that time I've participated in different range of web projects. Starting from simple web pages and finishing scalable high load applications. I'm a good team player and have worked in different type of teams: such as small, garage type team in Blissera, or big international company such as Lycos Europe. I'm eager for new technologies, but at the same time with a clear understanding of the risks which bleeding edge technologies bring to production. As a group leader in Lycos I've started with "waterfall" working model, in the following companies we've been using Agile/Scrum model.

I'm constantly working on myself, improving my knowledge and skills. Appreciate good sense of humor.
